RE: Legal Opinion Regarding Not Of Historical Significance – Not Time Sensitive

Date: December 19, 2013

This email confirms my opinion that unless there is a material change in circumstances that the determination by the City Commission continues to apply, has preclusive effect, and has no expiration date.

Craig:

I received the attached from Dona earlier. We are coming to the end of our due diligence period and I would appreciate confirmation of Dona's opinion that the designation "Not of Historical Significance" is not time sensitive and will not change, present conditions remaining constant. We need that to put any question(s) to rest. I also intended to speak to you last week when I sat in on the Commission meeting to thank you very much for all your help this past year and so, not having done so, let me do so now. Best wishes for a healthy and happy Holiday Season. hp

Actually, they were never designated. I attached the resolutions adopted by the City Commission in 2004. Since this was done by the City Commission, I believe that unless there is a change in the material facts that these properties can be demolished and that there is no expiration date of the determination. I'm copying the City Attorney to verify that.

Hi Dona,

Can you please tell me what the status of 726 & 740 Valencia Ave. with respect to the removal of the Historic Designation that was placed on both of these properties some years ago.

Thanks,

Marshall Bellin
